Part IV Reading Comprehension (35 marks)

Read the following passages. Each passage is followed by several questions. Respond to the questions using information from the passage. Remember to write the answers on the answer sheet.

Section A (5 marks)

Questions 56—60 are based on the following passage.

Mozart was a child genius—he wrote musical notes before he could write words and began composing music when he was four years old. One day, his father came home from church and found Mozart at his desk. There were bits and pieces of paper everywhere and at first his father was angry. Then he realised that the child had written a sonata for the piano. When he commented that it was difficult to play, little Mozart replied, “Not with some practice,” and began to play the piece himself. Mozart went on to write his first symphony at the age of nine.

The Mozart family were very talented. Mozart’s sister, Maria Anna, was also a brilliant musician. The family lived in Austria, but the two children and their father toured Europe several times, travelling far and wide. Unfortunately, the children often fell ill. But thanks to the travels, Mozart learned fifteen different languages.

During Mozart’s life, many people admired the beauty and originality of his music. Young Mozart could compose anything, anywhere—during meals, while talking to friends, or while travelling on a coach. He composed very quickly and wrote huge amounts of music—more than 600 pieces in all, including symphonies and piano concertos. He also gave music lessons and played at concerts. Despite his hard work and devotion, he had many ups and downs. Mozart spent money faster than he made it. He loved the high life, including clothes and servants and was often anxious about his finances.

In July 1791, a stranger came to Mozart’s house, asking him to compose a Requiem or a Mass for the Dead. Mozart was ill, but needed the money, so he agreed to do the work. As Mozart composed the piece, he had a vision that he was writing music for his own funeral. In fact, he died before the Requiem was finished. Mozart was 35 years old and had so little money that he was buried in an unmarked grave.

Questions 56—60

Decide the following statements are true (T) or false (F) according to the passage.

56. Mozart first showed his talent in music at the age of nine.
57. Maria Anna was a brilliant musician.
58. Besides music, Mozart had a talent for languages.
59. Mozart wrote little music but what he wrote was beautiful and original.
60. Before his death, Mozart decided to compose a piece of music for himself.

Section B (10 marks)

Questions 61—65 are based on the following passage.

The latest World Happiness Report says that prosperity is not the main reason for happiness. If you suffer real hardship, you are unlikely to be happy, but once your basic needs are met, money and material things become less of a necessity. Happiness depends more on recognizing the things you have and appreciating them, rather than getting more things. Yes, money can buy you the latest smart phone or fashion item, but this enjoyment is usually short-lived. Remember all those presents you received for Christmas when you were little? You were delighted when you opened them, but not for long.

(61)_____ One essential factor is human relationships. People who have the support of family members and also have strong friendships are more likely to be happy. Feeling protected and respected and knowing you can trust the people around you is vital.

(62)_____ Performing acts of kindness and generosity on a regular basis, for example, listening to a friend in need or carrying a neighbor's shopping, will make you feel on top of the world. Even a simple smile can work wonders. In fact, the report says that one smile makes a person feel as good as eating 2,000 bars of chocolate.

(63)_____ But being healthy and staying healthy requires some effort. A healthy diet is crucial and so is regular exercise. Laziness will not make you happy. Exercising for twenty to thirty minutes a day helps to reduce stress and worry and makes you feel more positive and optimistic. If you have been feeling blue and worrying too much about your exams, do some exercise. You will also find that you sleep better.

(64)_____ If so, it's probably because you haven't had enough of it. Because teenagers tend to go to bed too late and have to get up early, many suffer from a lack of sleep.

(65)_____ It also affects your ability to concentrate and may slow your growth. If you want to be happy and do well at school, try to get at least eight hours of sleep a night. Now that you know the theory, it is time to put it all into practice.

Questions 61—65

Complete the passage with the following sentences. There are two extra sentences that you do not need to use.

| A. It is not necessary to have more and more things. B. It is not surprising that health is another key contributor to happiness. C. But happiness means you have to give and take. D. Money really does have an effect on happiness. E. Talking of sleep, do you often wake up feeling miserable? F. Tiredness will certainly affect your happiness levels and put you in a bad mood. G. It seems that deep, long-lasting happiness comes from intangible things rather than tangible things. |
|---|

Section C (10 marks)

Questions 66—70 are based on the following passage.

Sophie is from London, while Mohammed is from Sierra Leone. They are two teenagers with very different lives, but their lives are connected through charity. Sophie is taking part in a huge national event that raises money for people in the UK and abroad—a sponsored run for Sport Relief. Mohammed's village has a new well that was paid for with money from the same event. Every year, Sport Relief and its sister charity, Comic Relief, raise money for good causes. By the end of this year, people will have completed more than 350 events. These events include marathons, football matches, talent shows and baking competitions, and when they are all completed, they will have raised over £50 million. That's enough money to transform the lives of thousands of people. Over the next few years, this money will be helping people like Mohammed.

According to recent research, the UK is the fifth most generous nation in the world. Charities are an important part of British society, and some of the world's biggest and most famous organisations, such as Oxfam and Save the Children, started in the UK. Today, there are over 160,000 charities, and more than three quarters (79%) of people donate money or volunteer time every month.

Many people make regular donations to big charities that aid poor people in different countries. Other people buy products from their online shops. Smaller charities address more local issues and rely on smaller events, like car boot sales and fun runs. They also rely on volunteers for the day-to-day running of these projects.

Teenagers play a big role in this culture of giving. A recent World Vision study showed that 69% of teens are aware of the needs of others thanks to the Internet and globalisation. And although teens may not have much money to give, they often help in other ways. They volunteer their free time. In the UK, more than a third of teenagers have given time to charities in the last year. In fact, supporting a charity is part of everyday life, and young people are the new champions of this culture.

Questions 66—70

Answer the following questions according to the passage.

66. What is Sophie doing to raise money for people in need?
67. What do the volunteer events include?
68. What do people usually do for charity?
69. How do teenagers become aware of the needs of others?
70. How many British teenagers have given time to charities in the last year?

Section D (10 marks)

Questions 71—75 are based on the following passage.

My summr hols wr a CWOT. B4, we usd 2 go 2 NY 2C my bro FTF. ILNY; its gr8.

Can you understand this sentence? If you can't, don't feel too bad: neither could the middle school teacher in Scotland who received this as homework from one of her students. This is Netspeak: the language of computerized communication found on the Internet, instant messages, and text messages on mobile phones. Netspeak is a collection of abbreviations, acronyms, and symbols. To newcomers, it can look like a completely foreign language. What is the "translation" of the sentence above? My summer holidays were a complete waste of time. Before, we used to go to New York to see my brother face to face. I love New York; it's great.

Language purists, schoolteachers, and parents everywhere say this new form of writing, with its disregard for proper spelling, punctuation, and grammar, threatens the English language. It is blamed for a perceived increase in spelling and grammatical errors in students' writing in schoolwork. School boards, teachers, and parent groups call for zero tolerance of Netspeak, for fear that the writing of the new generation might become completely incomprehensible and the language itself could become corrupted.

Everyone should just relax, say linguists and language scholars. While there certainly is a need to ensure students learn the standard rules of writing, the phenomenon of Netspeak and writing on the Internet, they claim, is actually doing more good than harm.

David Crystal, a language historian at the University of Wales, argues that Netspeak and the Internet are developing new forms of creative language use that provide a strong motivation for literacy. He points out that through personal home pages and blogs, the almost lost art of diary keeping has been revived, which encourages young people to write more than ever before, and improve writing.

From a linguist's point of view, languages do not and cannot become "corrupted"; they simply develop to meet the needs of each new generation.

Netspeak enthusiasts do acknowledge the importance of teaching young people how to speak and write proper English. "Children have to be taught their language and learn standard writing skills," Cynthia McVey, psychology lecturer at Glasgow Caledonian University, says. "I can understand the frustration of teachers and I think it's important that they get across to their students that text messaging is for fun, but that learning to write proper English is vital for their career or future study."

Questions 71—75

Complete the summary with a maximum of two words from the passage, changing the form where necessary.

Many educators and parents are concerned that the younger generation is corrupting English through Netspeak: the language young people use to (71) _____ on the Internet and through text messages on their mobile phones. Language experts, however, claim that Netspeak is not harming, but actually doing (72) _____ to the language. For one thing, it develops creativity with the language, and secondly it (73) _____ more writing. Experts also claim that all generations believe their language is being corrupted by new generations. In reality, languages do not become “bad”, but only (74) _____. Linguists do say that (75) _____ writing skills should be taught in schools, and that students should know when and when not to use Netspeak.

W: Yeah, twenty-five years ago. Look, I just don't want you having a heart attack running up and down the court.

M: So, what are you suggesting? Should I just abandon the idea? I'm not that out of shape.

W: Well ...you ought to at least have a physical before you begin. I mean, it has been at least five years since you played at all.

M: Well, okay, but...

W: And you need to watch your diet and cut back on the fatty foods, like ice cream. And you should try eating more fresh fruit and vegetables.

M: Yeah, you're probably right.

W: And you should take up a little weight training to strengthen your muscles.

【录音原文】

Adrienne: So, Lisa, what is that you are drinking?

Lisa: Oolong tea. Iced oolong tea.

Adrienne: Is it your favorite drink?

Lisa: It's not really my favorite drink. My favorite drink is Diet Coke. I love Diet Coke, but a couple of years ago, I was drinking only Diet Coke and starting to realize that that probably was not the healthiest thing for me to be drinking, so I switched to oolong tea.

Adrienne: What are the benefits?

Lisa: So there is a couple of benefits. One benefit which I really like is that it absorbs fat. There have been studies that prove that oolong tea does contribute to weight loss, and that's why if you go to a lot of Chinese restaurants they'll always serve tea with the meal and most likely it's oolong tea. Oolong tea also has anti-oxidants, which are cancer fighting and make it so much healthier for you, so it fights fat and cancer.

Adrienne: So now you only drink oolong tea?

Lisa: Well, in my research on the healthiest drink, I also found that green tea was even healthier than oolong tea, so now I drink oolong tea, green tea, and always a bit of Diet Coke.

Adrienne: So what are the benefits of green tea?

Lisa: Green tea, also, I think it has more anti-oxidants. And they did a study of green tea and found that people who drink green tea lost more weight than people who weren't drinking green tea, so anything that either absorbs fat and contributes to weight loss is a drink for me.

Adrienne: OK, but I thought green tea had a lot of caffeine in it, so I thought actually that green tea was maybe not the best tea to be drinking.

Lisa: That's what a lot of people think actually. In fact, the drink that has the least amount of caffeine is actually green tea and that is because it's not processed. The leaves are just dried. Then the drink that has more caffeine is oolong tea because the leaves are semi-processed. The next drink that has more caffeine is coffee actually, but the drink that has the most caffeine is English tea.

Good evening and thank you for coming to find out about the Hillside Survival School. My name's David Johnson. I started the school and I'm the school's chief instructor. I learned my survival skills while I was in the army and since then I've used them all over the world.

Before starting the Hillside Survival School, I worked in other well-known survival schools. My real aim for this school is to help people discover nature and outdoor life, and also to learn to have fun. We run a variety of courses but our basic survival course lasts a weekend and takes place throughout the year. This course teaches you the basic skills that you need to survive in the wilderness, and during the course you have a lot of opportunities to practice these skills. This course costs £139 per person.

If you want an even bigger challenge, our extreme survival course takes place between November and February when the conditions are more difficult. These courses also last for a weekend and costs £149 per person.

The extreme survival course teaches you to survive in a cold and wet environment. The course offers you the chance to push yourself, both physically and mentally. No tents, no gas cookers, just you and the wilderness. You learn to find and prepare food and cook it over an open fire. You learn to build a shelter and then you actually sleep in it. Most importantly, you learn a lot about yourself and how well you can cope with unexpected situations.

A few final practical details. You have to be at least 18 years old to come on the courses. The full cost of the course needs to be paid at least 4 weeks before the course begins and remember that there are discounts for groups of 4 or more.

【录音原文】

The term culture shock was introduced for the first time in 1958 to describe the anxiety produced when a person moves to a completely new environment. This term expresses the feeling of not knowing what to do or how to do things in a new environment. The feeling of culture shock generally sets in after the first few weeks of coming to a new place.

We can describe culture shock as the physical and emotional discomfort a person suffers when coming to live in a place different from the place of origin. Often, the way that we lived before is not accepted or considered as normal in the new place. Everything is different, for example, not speaking the language, not knowing how to use banking machines, not knowing how to use the telephone, and so forth.

The symptoms of culture shock can appear at different times. Although, a person can experience real pain from culture shock; it is also an opportunity for growing and learning new perspectives. Culture shock can help people develop a better understanding of themselves and stimulate personal creativity.

Culture shock has many stages, more precisely, five stages. Each stage can be ongoing, or appear only at certain times.

o		u		a
w	i	n	d	s
e		n		e
l	a	y	e	r

94. 【答案】

【解析】 根据所给字母 a 可知，最后一行单词为 layer 或 laser，如果填入 laser，那第三列最后一个单词为 s，故第三列单词为 winds，所以第一行第三个字母为 w，由此可知，第一行的单词为 towel，t 因此位于一行一列，可知需要两个以 t 开头的单词，不符合题目要求，故排除。所以最后一行为单词 layer。所以一列最后一个字母为 l，故第一列的单词为 towel。第三列最后一个字母为 y，故第三列单词为 funny。最后一列最后一个字母为 r，故最后一列单词为 laser。因此剩下第三行的单词为 winds。

95. 【答案】 D

【解析】 每一行中，两个方格中黑色圆点数量相减，即可得到最后一个方格中黑色圆点的数量。白色圆点数量相减，即可得出最后一个方格中白色圆点的数量。

【解析】 根据题目中的信息可知，Greys 居住在 Blacks 和 Whites 之间，他们都在偶数一边，由此可以确定 4 号为 Greys。因为 Greens 住在 Blacks 的对面，所以 Blacks 只能是 6 号，即 Greens 为 5 号。最后剩下 Whites 和 Blues，数字 2 和 3，题目中提到 Blues 房子的数字比 Whites 高，所以 Blues 为 3，Whites 为 2。

I 【参考范文】

One of my wonderful journeys is climbing up Mount Tai. In order to watch the sunrise, we have to reach the top of the mountain before six o'clock. It took us about five hours to get there. I had never watched the sunrise before, so I was too excited to feel exhausted. An hour later, the sun gradually appeared on the horizon. The rise of the sun is one of the greatest feasts of nature. And Mount Tai is surely a celebrated vantage point from which to watch the sunrise.

Behind every great achievement in anyone's life lies perseverance. We see this in every human's endeavor. Outstanding sportsmen spend all their time practising. Perseverance surely is very important in our way to succeed. However, the central premise is that we make the right decision and go to the right direction. If we choose the wrong way, perseverance makes us suffer great loss and we may not be able to recover after the setback.

Therefore, on the one hand, we should be well aware of the importance of perseverance. On the other hand, we must fully prepare for our decisions. Once we have made up our mind, we need to take a step by step approach to accomplish everything until we achieve our final goal.
